Concept note for Revising National Conservation Strategy 1988

In 1988 the National Planning Commission had Produced National Conservation Strategy for Nepal with support from the International Union for Conservation of Nature (IUCN), The Document was well received by concerned government and non-government institutions. Moreover, the Strategy was extensively cited by people involved in development and environmental issues within and outside Nepal. However, there has been significant change in national and international contexts in which the 1988 Strategy was developed. This, in turn, has affected and will continue to affect in the future almost all spheres of our lives (political, social, economic, natural and physical environments). There seems to be a general agreement amongst major stakeholders on the need to revisit the 1988 Strategy and consider ways in which we could address the country's nature conservation challenges and opportunities in the rapidly changing global context.
